Personal Safety & Crime Prevention Steps

Personal Safety & Crime Prevention begins with you, the following three steps easily overhaul your risk of being a victim of crime.

STEP ONE: The everyday little habits.

Always report anything suspicious in your neighborhood to police, immediately. Clothing and vehicle descriptions are helpful to police investigations.

- Always be observant of your surroundings, wherever you are, at home, at work or at play.
- Refrain from carrying around on a daily basis, important personal documents such as birth certificates or social security cards.
- Keep your date of birth as confidential as your social security number. Never provide personal information to anyone over the telephone or internet. Never answer a request to provide log in information for internet accounts or email.
- Never pay money to claim a prize or cash a check to obtain partial earnings. If it's too good to be true, it most likely is a scam.
- Park your vehicle in night-time well-lighted areas; and NEVER leave your vehicle unlocked while unattended...even at home in your driveway.
- If you must walk alone to your car or about at night, be ready to defend yourself with a set of keys in hand, make sure a cell phone is handy, stay alert, aware of your location; and scream and run if threatened of attacked.
- Always report being a victim of any crime to police, as soon as it happens.

STEP TWO: Around the Home Safety.

Always report anything suspicious in your neighborhood to police, immediately. Clothing and vehicle descriptions are helpful to police investigations.

- Maintain and use good working locks on all doors and windows of your home and out-buildings.
- Use exterior lighting at night, well-lit areas deter criminal activity. The use of lighting timers and motion sensors allow for consistency and energy conservation.
- Leave a night time interior light on when not at home, gives the appearance someone might be home.
- Keep exterior shrubs and trees trimmed away from your home windows and doors, minimizing areas prowlers can hide and stake out your property.
- Use interior window coverings such as drapes and blinds to obscure visible valuables inside your home. Don't advertise your valuables for criminals to be enticed.
- When out of town for an extended period of time, have a trusted family member check your property and collect your mail on a daily basis. Don't advertise being out of town on social networking sites such as Facebook® and MySpace®.
- If affordable, use alarm services and security camera systems to increase property security around the clock.

STEP THREE: Proactive Deterrence.

Final Step in minimizing risk.

- Maintain and use good working locks on all doors and windows of your home.
- Leave a night time interior light on when not at home, gives the appearance someone might be home.
- Use interior window coverings like drapes and blinds to obscure valuables inside your home. Don't advertise your valuables for criminals to be enticed.
- Maintain an up to date list of the make, model and serial numbers of all valuable property; especially electronics and anything irreplaceable. Engrave a unique mark on any valuable that does not have a manufacturer serial number. Keep purchase receipts of significant value items with the list.
- Photograph jewelry close up (from 3-4 inches) with a descriptive list for identification purposes. Engrave a unique mark, if possible without degrading its look or value. Remember, most jewelry is not unique and does not have a serial number for tracking.
- Photograph any and all weapons, documenting their make, model, serial number and purchase information. Keep weapons secure of minors, using gun locks to prevent tragedies.
- Keep significant valuables in a safe or hidden. Keep prescribed scheduled drugs in a private place, under lock and key, at all times. Do not access medications out in the open and do not advertise what medications you are prescribed.
